

I support the ruling to allow airline passengers to use Airsep Lifestyle concentrators in flight. The language of the proposal needs to include that passengers may use their own Lifestyles and need not be limited to those possibly provided by the airline. The proposal also needs to address the issue of providing suitable power sources for the devices as is done for other devices such as computers or game machines. This is an important step in remediating discriminatory regulations affecting persons with a breathing disability. Thank you.
